SCHUYLER COLFAX DESIRES TO RUN FOR CONGRESS.

Some of the many friends of Hon. Schuyler Colfax having requested it of him as a favor (and a possible duty) to become a candidate for Congress in his old district, he has replied in a letter addressed to David Turner, of Crown Point:

SOUTH BEND, April 8.

Dear Judge Turner:

Home for Saturday and Sunday as usual, and en route from Minnesota to Michigan lecture appointments. I find your letter. Thanks to the good friends of your noble little county, which sustained me so steadfastly and so enthusiastically through so many years of public life for their good wishes. But even if an unanimous election to Congress were tendered me I would not accept. Public service is, I know, often a public duty. But twenty years of faithful service to my country have certainly fulfilled all such obligations of citizenship. The happiest years of the last quarter of a century have been the recent ones, in which I have belonged to my family and not the "rest of mankind."

With unabated devotion to Republican principles, I must be excused from attesting my devotion except in the ranks with its millions of voters, where I have found such genuine happiness and independence, as well as freedom from the needless cares, the exactions and injustice, and the burdensome and wearing responsibilities of public life. Always and truly yours,

SCHUYLER COLFAX.

THE CHURCH LINCOLN WOULD JOIN.

"At the White House, on an occasion I shall never forget," said Mr. Denning, "the conversation turned on religious subjects, and Mr. Lincoln remarked: 'I have never united myself to any church, because I have found difficulty in giving my assent, without mental reservation, to the long complicated statements of Christian doctrine which characterize their articles of belief and confession of faith. When any church will inscribe over its altar, as its sole qualification of membership the Savior's condensed statements of the substance of both law and gospel, 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself,' that I will join with all my heart and soul."

Hon. Leonard Swett, of Chicago, delivered his lecture, "Circuit Riding with Lincoln," in Milwaukee a few nights ago, and in the course of it said: "I remember a case he won for the Illinois Central. It was a great triumph for the road, saving it millions, and he charged $5,000. The road refused to pay. He was angry and brought suit, and there being no appearance for the road, he got judgment. John Douglas, now president of the road, asked him to let him have a chance to appear, and Lincoln set the judgment aside. They tried the case at once, and his humor before the jury gave him a verdict immediately." The Milwaukee Sentinel adds to the story an interesting circumstance which is narrated by General M. Brayman, now a citizen of Wisconsin, but then attorney of the company. The Sentinel says: "It was he who employed Mr. Lincoln to conduct some important litigation for the road. Mr. Lincoln managed the case with ability, and won a decisive victory. In the mean time, George B. McClellan had been appointed General Superintendent of the road. When Mr. Lincoln presented a bill of $5,000, McClellan, reasoning, it may be supposed, that the charge was exorbitant for the services of the gawky country lawyer who stood there before him, refused to pay it, and treated Mr. Lincoln with marked discourtesy. Lincoln sued the company and recovered the full amount under the circumstances stated by Mr. Swett. The subsequent relations between Mr. Lincoln and the railroad were not harmonious. It was characteristic of Lincoln to promote his insolent enemy to the command of the Army, but McClellan lacked the soul to appreciate such unlimited magnanimity."

HILTON'S HARVEST.

The Man Who Has Charge of Stewart's Millions, and Something About His Character.

From the Chicago Times.

Appropos of the death of A. T. Stewart, many good things said and done are coming suddenly and mysteriously to light. A few of them are worth recording. Judge Henry Hilton, to whom Stewart left $1,000,000, was for many years past the legal advisor of the testator, whom he served as assiduously for the handsome salary of $20,000. Hilton was, when Stewart first took a fancy to him, a Tammany politician of the least reputable kind. He had the sharpness and cunning peculiar to the breed of American politicians, but could not boast of any single quality which would commend him to an ordinary man. Perhaps this was why Mr. Stewart took to him. Mr. Hilton at one time held the office of park commissioner, and perhaps he was a good officer. His acts were not many it is true, but they were notable. He celebrated his appointment by ordering all the bronze statues in the Central Park to be whitewashed, an order which was fortunately countermanded by one of Hilton's associates. But Mr. Stewart apparently never heard of this, or if he did, must have approved Judge Hilton's original plan, for he bought many of the pictures in his art gallery, which is valued at $1,000,000, by the Judge's advice.

The Judge and Mr. Stewart were the most intimate friends, and Mr. Stewart wanted the Judge to become a member of the Union League Club, of which he was Vice President. This was no easy job. To bring into the Union League a broken-down Tammany politician, the bosom friend and confidant of Sweeney and Tom Fields in the palmy days of Tweedism! But Mr. Stewart had resort to strategy. He gave the club to understand that he might very probably make it a present of his magnificent marble mansion on Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fourth street, and the members were delighted. When they had thoroughly digested the dish and the report of the promised gift had been disseminated far and wide, Mr. Stewart proposed Judge Hilton for membership in the club. But alas! he was black-balled, badly black-balled, beaten out of time. Well, Mr. Stewart did not leave his house to the Union League club, and now the members are wishing that they had waited to hear the will before they so hurriedly passed resolutions of respect, regret, remembrance, etc.

It is very generally believed that the $1,000,000 left to Judge Hilton is not for him, but was so left with a private understanding that it should, or that part of it should, go to certain irregular offspring of Mr. Stewart, and particularly to a party now residing in or near Paris. Hilton has already made a large fortune out of Mr. Stewart. He has a handsome house magnificent furnished, on the best part of Fifth Avenue, and lives in great style. Besides, he has the sole administration of all Mr. Stewart's business affairs, and no one supposes for an instant that he will impoverish himself in the discharge of his duty.

Judge Hilton is about 55 years of age, very tall and handsome, but with somewhat overbearing manners and the style of a snob of the worst kind. He wears embroidered shirt-fronts and diamond studs, parts what hair he has in the middle, and makes up generally like a superannuated top or retired gambler. He has several daughters, all very handsome and charming girls, who are as good matches as any reasonable man could wish to find.

Gossip of newspaper circles is to the effect that the night after the will of Mr. Stewart was made public, several reporters of the daily papers went to interview Judge Hilton at his house on Fifth Avenue. They found the lucky man very frisky and lively, like a bridegroom, not when he cometh forth from the chamber prepared to run a race, but when he getteth up from the table and foeth good because of the good things which are in him. The Judge talked of what "Stewart and I had proposed," and said he was going to carry out Stewart's plans to the letter. He was very severe on Kollum, Mr. Stewart's architect, who put up the "Woman's Hotel" building on South Avenue, and said that if he had his way, that building would never have existed, but in its place would be "tenement houses for the poor." He said he had very little to say, as "Stewart and I owe our success in life to the fact that we knew how to keep our own counsel," and added, "Stewart and Mrs. Stewart and I were more like brothers and sisters than anything else. I knew Stewart's every every plan, and Mrs. Stewart knows this." The Judge rambled on thus, and touching upon his public life, said: "I have done with public life and the public; thank God I am not dependent on the public for anything."

Having got thus far, the Judge began to pitch into the Times, which went for him without gloves during the Tammany exposure, and wound up by reiterating his thanks to God that he was not dependent on the public, and proposed to carry out Mr. Stewart's plans as to him seemed best.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

RESIGNATION OF SUPERVISOR MATTHEWS.

St. Louis, April 22.—Sergeant Geo. Prender, in charge of the signal service station, left for Washington last evening, where he will testify before the committee on expenditures in the treasury department. Before his departure he was interviewed by a Times reporter, and that he was public debt statement clerk under Secretary McCulloch, and while there he discovered great frauds were practiced upon the government in the public debt statement. The cash reported in the treasury was not on hand, while the government was paying three per cent for money to meet temporary necessities. He also discovered that hundreds of thousands of dollars of government money was placed in the hands of confederates outside of the department, who loaned it back to the government as individual funds, and drew interest on it. While pursuing these investigations, Prender was informed by a clerk in the redemption bureau, named Richardson, that immense frauds were being perpetrated in that bureau. That fortunes were being made by reporting money destroyed which was preserved. That only half of the money turned in for destruction was destroyed being divided among perpetrators of the fraud. Prender says he tried to have these frauds investigated a number of times, but failed. When Boutwell became Secretary, Prender informed him of frauds, and the Secretary promised to investigate them. Shortly after this a man named Fox, who had also been clerk in the redemption bureau, called on Prender, saying he had been appointed detective by Secretary Boutwell to work up these frauds, and wanted all the papers and evidence he had in his possession. Prender refused to give them up, except on an order of the Secretary. Fox left, but returned with a letter from the Secretary, asking for the documents, and he gave them to Fox in the presence of a witness, who is now in Washington. Meanwhile Richardson, the man who informed Prender of the frauds in the redemption bureau, had retired. He was visited by Fox, and although a Democrat, appointed assistant postmaster at Albany, and no investigation of the frauds were ever made. Prender will probably testify before the committee on Monday.

ANOTHER SQUEALER FROM ST. LOUIS.

He Has Gone on to Meet the Others.

Burning of a Camp Ground.

Failure of a Chicago Bank.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—The subcommittee investigating the affairs of the navy yards here are expected to finish their labors and return to Washington this evening. The secrets of the committee have been well kept, and there is no indication as to the nature of the report, although it is rumored that important developments have been made.

President Grant is in the city, having arrived last evening for the purpose of seeing the present condition of the Centennial grounds. This afternoon the new building of the Academy of Fine Arts, at the corner of Broad and Cherry streets, was opened with appropriate and impressive ceremonies. Hon. Theodore Cuyler was to have delivered the opening address, but on his death Rev. Dr. Farness was selected, and pronounced an able and interesting oration, after which Story's statue of Jerusalem was unveiled. The building is a very handsome one, and is the largest building devoted to artistic, educational and exhibiting purposes in America. The spring exhibition will commence on Monday.

The Portuguese steamer India, having on board the Portuguese Centennial Commission and entire stock of Portuguese goods for the Centennial, arrived here to-day. FT. LARAMIE, April 23.—H. E. Brown, of Salt Lake, one of the proprietors of Gilmore, Salisbury & Patrick's stage line, is lying thirty miles from here at Sage Creek, badly wounded, and two ambulances and an escort has just been sent by General Brady to bring him here, accompanied by acting assistant surgeon Pettis, U. S. A. Mr. Brown was shot by Indians on the night of the 25th. He was making a night trip on one of the last freight wagons and was sitting by the side of the driver, when they were suddenly fired upon, a ball hitting Mr. Brown near the front of the left hip, first striking the brass shell of a cartridge in his belt, carrying the cartridge into the wound with the ball, both remaining in his body, making a very bad case. He will reach here to-morrow night or Tuesday morning. Of the three wounded men from the Red Canon massacre, two have died, Beer's, of Virginia City, Nevada, and Gresham, of Bigelow, Holt county, Missouri. Fulton was alive at last accounts. The colored woman captured was killed. Her body was found full of arrows and mutilated. She also had been ravished.

CHICAGO, April 22.—The Cook County Savings Bank has suspended as a bank of deposit, and will immediately wind up its affairs. Liabilities, $30,000 deposits, and $60,000 which the directors have loaned. Its assets are $150,000, besides $15,000 in judgment notes, which are of some account. There are 600 depositors, mostly Scandinavians, who the directors affirm will receive nearly if not quite dollar for dollar. The bank has been in a feeble condition for a long time.

LEAVENWORTH, KAN., April 23.—Advices received here state that sometime Thursday night a family of emigrants named Baker, from Pennsylvania, were massacred by Indians about 100 miles northwest of Custer City. The family consisted of a man, wife and two children, all of whom were beheaded with tomahawks and then scalped. The wagon belonging to Baker was rifled and everything valuable carried off.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—John I. Davenport, United States supervisor of elections, at New York, resumed his evidence to day before the committee on expenditures of the department of justice. He explained the frauds committed under the forms of naturalization, and his method of discovering them. He was paid for the work of preparing affidavits in several cases of frauds, as any other supervisor was paid. He issued warrants in 1872 for 1,200 persons registered, believing they had no existence. The commissioner of internal revenue, to-day, by direction of the President, wrote to Supervisor Hedrick, asking his resignation. Supervisor Matthews has resigned, to take effect May 1st.

PITTSBURGH, April 22.—Intelligence was received in this city, this morning, that the Methodist camp meeting grounds at Tarentum, Pennsylvania, have been destroyed by fire. The fire broke out about 12 o'clock last night, and as the cottages were all frame, the flames spread with frightful rapidity. The Tarentum grounds have been owned by the Methodists of this vicinity for many years, and the cottages belonging to members of the church in this city are numerous. The grounds probably contained 150 cottages, which were generally of four or five rooms. The only buildings saved were the tenement houses occupied by the superintendent and the Camp Hotel. The fire will prove a disastrous one and may seriously interfere with arrangements for national camp meeting announced for August. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to be incendiary. Loss about $60,000; insurance about $20,000.

EVANSVILLE, IND., April 22.—The Democrats held a meeting at the Court House to-night, to ratify the nomination of James D. Williams and to organize a Blue Jeans Club. The meeting was respectable in numbers. A committee was appointed to report at a future meeting. Many signed the list of members. The work was not specially enthusiastic. A proposition to adopt blue jeans as a badge of membership did not succeed. Thos. E. Garvin was Chairman.

The Utica Herald has embalmbed in verse Senator Hamlin's ideas of statesmanship as embodied in the postal bill framed by him. "As near as we can get at Hamlin's idea of a schedule of postal charges," says the editor, "he would have a one cent stamp for a circular, a two cent stamp for a newspaper, a three cent stamp for a newslettr, and a great big frank for the Senator. Hump, Hamlin! rip and tear! Go for the freindless newspaper."

The World knows of no man who would so effectually consign the Democracy to the everlasting slumbers as Judge Davis, of Illinois, and yet he seems to be the coming man. He is the honestest man now to be found, and he belongs to a past age, the centennial of 1876.—Minneapolis Mail.

We hope the Independents and Democrats will have the wisdom to steer clear of Judge Davis. He is a political fraud, hungry for office, and even if elected no man can tell what would be his policy. A man who so grossly prostitutes his seat on the bench cannot be depended on in the Presidential chair.—New Haven Union-Dem.

DEDICATORY SERVICES.

Bad Weather, but a Good Attendance. Notwithstanding—Interesting Sermons, Liberal Contributions, &c.

Yesterday opened in a most unpromising manner so far as the weather was concerned. The rain which commenced falling soon after midnight, continued through the forenoon with but little if any abatement, and was attended by a high wind, which added much to the severity of the storm. This state of affairs was, to make the best of it, exceedingly discouraging to the Baptist congregation, who had fixed upon this day for the dedication of their beautiful new chapel; but, notwithstanding the wind and rain, a congregation sufficient in number to fill the room two-thirds full assembled at the hour for morning service.

After consultation it was decided not to hold the dedicatory services proper until evening, or, if the storm should continue, until next Sabbath.

Of clergymen there were present besides the pastor, Rev. Dr. Johnson, of Alton, and Rev. F. G. Thearle, of Chicago, a former pastor of the church. The arrangement was for Dr. Johnson to preach in the morning, but as the dedication of the chapel was to be deferred, Mr. Thearle was pressed into service, and preached a very interesting and feeling discourse from the words in Psalm—93 12 vs. "The righteous shall flourish like the palm tree," &c.

The speaker remarked by way of introduction, that the palm-tree was used in the text as a symbol of Christian life and experience, and in his discourse noticed the points of analogy between the palm tree and genuine Christian life.

First, the tree in question grows on the arid desert—so the Christian lives in a world of sin fully compared to a desert waste.

Secondly, the palm-tree is graceful in its appearance—so is Christian life.

Thirdly, the palm-tree, though seeming to vegetate in the dry and scorching sand, by digging to its roots they are found to stand in living springs of pure water—so Christian life strikes its roots down into Christ, who is the source of spiritual life.

Other points were noticed and brought out forcibly by pertinent illustrations, and the discourse, as it deserved to do, held the closest attention of the audience from the beginning to the end.

The sermon was supplemented by a few remarks of a very encouraging character, from Dr. Johnson, who said he believed the storm was all for the best, and expressed the belief that every thing would come out right, and called upon the congregation to assemble at the hour of three o'clock p. m., for a prayer meeting. At the conclusion of these remarks the congregation was dismissed for the morning.

At 3 p. m. a goodly number assembled as requested for a season of prayer, and a very interesting occasion was enjoyed.

In the evening the rain had ceased, and the house was well filled. In consequence of indisposition the pastor was absent. Elder Haynes, of the Christian church, was present, and read the Scripture lessons for the evening. The preliminary exercises over, Dr. Johnson, who was to preach the sermon, gave out as his text, "My house shall be called a house of prayer for all nations." The speaker dwelt upon three points.

First, what is a church the house of God? In answer to this question the following reasons were suggested. First, is the place appointed by God for His worship; secondly, it is the place where He manifests His presence in a special manner.

The second general proposition was, a church is a house of prayer. From this the speaker inferred that nothing should be taken into the church upon which God's blessing may not be sought.

Thirdly, the church is a house of prayer for all nations. Under this head the speaker took occasion to speak of the universality of Christian worship, and of the impartiality of the Divine Being in providing salvation for all people of every clime and age.

The several propositions and points embraced in the discourse were elaborated in a clear and forcible manner, being presented in pertinent and eloquent language. At several passages the speaker became deeply in earnest, and moved his audience to tears. Of the sermon we may say, most truthfully, it was able, earnest, and effective, holding the closest attention of the hearers from the first to the last words.

At the conclusion of the discourse the speaker announced that the structure, which they had convened to dedicate, had cost about $10,000, and that of this sum $2,500 was unprovided for, and he proposed, right then and there, to ask the congregation to contribute that amount, as the house could not be formally dedicated until every dollar was secured in money or pledges.

To realize this amount he inquired how many present would contribute two hundred dollars each. To this proposition five persons responded, and numerous others in sums of one hundred, fifty, twenty-five, ten and five dollars, respectively, until about $1,700 were raised. The plates were then passed, which must have gathered nearly or quite another hundred. As the hour was getting late it was thought best to defer further effort in the line of money-raising, and hold another service this evening, at which time a brief discourse will be preached by Dr. Johnson, the balance of the money be raised, and the formal dedication of the Chapel take place. The ordinance of baptism will also be administered by the pastor.

Of the services yesterday one may say in general terms, they were of a deeply interesting character throughout. The singing, by Messrs. D. L. Bunn and G. F. Wessels, with Miss Eva Bunn and Mrs. Wessels, was excellent, and added much to the interest of the occasion.

While upon this matter of dedication, it may not be amiss to speak of the building itself. In size it is 40x76 feet, and 35 feet to the highest point in the ceiling, with a basement for furnace and other purposes of equal extent with the floor. The brick and stone work was done by Mr. D. C. Moffitt, and shows excellent workmanship in that line. The carpenters were Lyon & Patterson, who also did fine work in their department. The plastering is the handiwork of Snarr & Miller, and is in all respects a good job. The plumbing and gas-fitting was done by Mueller & Co., and like all jobs turned out by their establishment, show that they understand their business. Instead of chandeliers and brackets, what is known as sun burners are used. Of these there are three, and we think they are the first ever put up in the city. They give a soft, mellow light, and being entirely out of range of the eye, are not as tiring to the sight as are other modes of lighting.

The painting was done by Capt. W. E. Bingham, and is highly creditable to his skill and taste. It is in imitation of black walnut, and is exceedingly well executed. The frescoing, by Mr. M. A. Meyer, is also a very neat job, and shows that those who have work of that kind to be done, need not go abroad for artists to do it well.

On the occasion of the opening services yesterday the floral display was very fine, there being hanging baskets of flowers at each window, with a large number of vases upon the platform and altar table, and also at other places in the house. Among these floral decorations was an orange tree, from the garden of the elder Mr. Wessels, bearing both blossoms and ripe fruit.

The society may be congratulated upon the consummation of this good work. They have now a neat and commodious place of worship, with an easy seating capacity of about 350, and by placing seats at the sides and in the aisles, sittings for five hundred may be easily furnished, when necessity requires.

Our readers will bear in mind the service this evening, when the formal dedication will take place. The public is cordially invited, and we trust that a goodly number will be present to lend a hand in raising whatever balance may be required to provide for the last dollar of the debt incurred in building the house.

Church Sociable and Festival.—The ladies of the Universalist Society will hold a Sociable and Festival in their new church building on Prairie street, on Thursday evening of this week, the avails of which are to be used in furnishing the church. The ladies of this society are noted for their skill in getting up an entertainment of this kind, and no pains will be spared to make the occasion an agreeable one to all who may attend. We trust that there will be a regular crowd on the occasion, and that a handsome revenue may be realized for so laudable an object.

Rev. William Taylor, who was advertised to speak at some of the churches in our city yesterday, filled his appointments by preaching at Stapp's Chapel in the morning, to a small audience. Had the weather been good, the church would doubtless have been full, as the First Church waived its morning service. In the afternoon, at half past three, he preached to a fair audience at the First M. E. Church, and addressed a crowded house in the evening at the same place, it being the occasion of the anniversary of the Macon county Bible Society. He lectures at the same place this evening, on India, and will give a history of his labors as missionary in Bombay. The lecture this evening is free, and will no doubt be highly entertaining.

J. R. Gorin, President, and the several pastors of the city Vice Presidents, with R. Liddle, Secretary, and I. J. Davis, Treasurer.

The following directors were also appointed:

At a general anniversary meeting of the Macon County Bible Society, held at the First M. E. church, on Sunday evening, April 23, the proceedings above indicated were ratified. The meeting was opened by singing, following which a prayer was offered by Rev. L. Fields. Rev. J. Mosser, the district agent, then made a brief statement of the progress of the Bible work in the county during the past year, after which the president introduced the Rev. Wm. Taylor, who proceeded to address the meeting in the interest of the Bible cause. At the conclusion of the address a collection was taken, amounting to $19.06. The meeting was then closed by singing, and the benediction.

Christian Church.—The pastor occupied the pulpit yesterday morning, and preached a very plain and interesting discourse on the 'Apostleship of Christ.' Owing to the unfavorable condition of the weather the attendance was not as large as usual. The Sunday School was quite interesting. No services in the evening.

English Operas.—An event of no ordinary interest to the lovers of classic music, will be the appearance at the Opera House, on Monday evening next, of the Richings-Bernard English Opera Company, under the immediate personal supervision and direction of Caroline Richings Bernard, known throughout Europe and America as the most accomplished prima donna, soprano and queen of English Opera that has ever given entertainments in this country. This company, numbering some twenty well trained artists, have recently closed a successful engagement in Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis; and judging from the extended and complimentary notices of their performances by the papers of those cities, we have no doubt a rare and recherché treat is in store for our citizens. Mozart's well-known and popular opera, 'The Marriage of Figaro,' with a strong cast, will be presented.

Parker, foreman; Dr. Joseph King, Wm. L. Hammer, G. M. Bruce, M. E. Shroder and James Dermitt. We learn from reliable sources that the statement in the Review, that there is a feeling of indignation in the neighborhood where he resides, against Alton Disbrow, on account of his petition to have his mother sent to Jacksonville, is entirely without foundation.
